The Worldwide Body-Mind Control System is Being Constructed podcast.

Welcome to this deep-dive exploration into a project that is arguably the most ambitious and chilling in human history: the construction of a global system designed to monitor and control the very thoughts and biological functions of the human race.

The foundation of this system rests on ancient principles of political power and strategic concealment. Throughout history, those who serve tyrants have understood that power is most easily seized and held when one's adversaries are kept in the dark about true intentions. A tyrant's greatest tool has always been the ability to read the minds and emotions of others—traditionally through spies and the interpretation of body language—to distinguish between genuine loyalty and hidden conspiracy. These Machiavellian tactics, detailed in The Prince, provided the blueprint for leaders like Marx, Lenin, Stalin, and Mao to perfect methods of mass control that can effectively enslave entire nations. However, to implement such a system on a worldwide scale, a far more efficient "prison system" is required, one that utilizes advanced technology for the early detection of any dissident activity.

A primary spokesperson for this emerging order is Yuval Noah Harari, an influential Israeli professor whose views are widely consumed by the global elite. Harari views the human species as nothing more than a type of animal that requires management by "qualified experts". His influential work, Sapiens, is a staple of discussion among those developing Artificial Intelligence, where he posits a future where AI renders billions of people redundant. He refers to this group as the "useless class" and suggests that their numbers will eventually need to be drastically reduced through a global eugenics program. This dark vision is notably endorsed by figures like Bill Gates, who explicitly categorizes humans as animals when discussing the future of our species.

The elite further their progress toward this "new world order" through the World Economic Forum (WEF), where billionaires gather annually in Davos to discuss the steps necessary to forge this system. Harari has used this platform to declare that the most important fact of the 21st century is that humans are now "hackable animals". By "hackable," he means that a person's neurological functions can now be accessed and directed wirelessly from a distant location, much like a hacker breaking into a computer to alter its software. This technology represents a sinister and invasive threat to social freedom, yet its details are often omitted from public addresses to prevent the "hackable animals" from realizing the extent of the danger.

The infrastructure for this global surveillance is already being built in the form of massive AI data centers, supported by hundreds of billions of dollars in funding. These centers are not intended for commercial productivity; rather, they are designed to process the colossal amounts of personal data collected by a worldwide body-mind control system in real time. This system will allow governments and corporations like Google and Microsoft to influence and oppress populations. For example, a "biometric bracelet" could allow an employer or the government to monitor a person's heart rate, blood pressure, and hormone levels to determine if they are being untruthful or resisting policy. Harari admits that this technology will "change everything," effectively allowing democracies to be transformed into brutal dictatorships through pervasive surveillance.

Technical confirmation of this system can be found in U.S. Patent 10,163,055, titled "Routing Policies for Biological Hosts," granted to AT&T in 2018. This document outlines the achievement of real-time wireless communication and control among large social groups. It describes a "neurological area network"—the complex of nerves and the brain—which can interface with a "communications device" like a smartphone. This means a smartphone can be used to wirelessly send signals to and receive data from a human brain. The network can utilize cellular data, Wi-Fi, Bluetooth, and even local power lines to transmit signals across any portion of the electromagnetic spectrum.

One of the most significant revelations in the patent is the "wireless electrode". Unlike previous scientific experiments that required surgical implants to control behavior—such as Rodriguez Delgado's 1963 experiment where he stopped a charging bull via a radio signal to a physical implant—this new system requires no surgery or physical connection. This represents a massive leap in the external control of biological brains, allowing for "interhost" communication. Shockingly, the patent states that one person's brain may control another person's body and vice-versa. Because the patent does not specify that this must be voluntary, it is highly likely that this control can be implemented involuntarily and without the subject's knowledge.

Furthermore, the system aims to assign a unique network identification (MAC address) to every biological host, facilitating the mandatory electronic identification of all citizens. Different addresses can even be assigned to specific regions of an individual's brain or body, allowing the system to target emotional states and physiological responses selectively or across an entire population simultaneously. While programs like Elon Musk's Neuralink are used to distract the public with the promise of medical breakthroughs, the 2018 patent suggests that the technology is already far more advanced and does not require the invasive surgery Neuralink promotes.

The system also includes "changeable tattoos" that respond to a person's thoughts. These tattoos act as a visible interface for environmental monitors, allowing local sensors to track a person's mood, physiology, vaccination status, and social credit score. Bill Gates is a major investor in this "smart ink" technology, which can even be instructed to display another person's thoughts, granting outsiders total access to an individual's mental and emotional state in real time.

The question then arises: how are these "wireless electrodes" introduced into the body? The answer lies in self-assembling nanotechnology. These nanoparticles, measured in millionths of a millimeter, act as tiny antennas that can receive and broadcast electromagnetic signals. Once they accumulate in the brain, they allow for the creation of a comprehensive "brain map" common to all humans, enabling scientists to interpret and influence specific behavioral activities. While these particles could be added to food or water, mass vaccination is the ideal delivery mechanism because injection allows the particles to bypass the blood-brain barrier.

The ruling elite have heavily promoted vaccination for years, and the number of recommended doses for children has skyrocketed from five in 1962 to eighty-eight in 2023. COVID-19 served as a "master pandemic" to persuade billions to accept an experimental chemical concoction, and more "phony pandemics" are expected to further this agenda.

This technological infrastructure has profound spiritual implications, aligning with Biblical prophecies regarding the End Time. The system could enable a central controller to manipulate the emotions of entire nations, stimulating anger, anxiety, or excitement to coincide with political events. It may also be used to deliver the "Mark of the Beast" mentioned in the Book of Revelation, potentially as a permanent tattoo required for "membership" in a global system under a counterfeit Christ.

In a potential scenario, the system could be used to adversely affect the physical health of a population—such as reducing heart rates to cause widespread fatigue—only for the elite to offer a new "vaccine" as a miraculous cure. This cure would actually be the mechanism for turning the masses into hyper-obedient slaves. The Antichrist may even use the system to induce mystical or psychedelic experiences, convincing individuals they have achieved "cosmic consciousness" and are themselves gods. Despite this deceptive power, many will recognize the manipulation and reject the system, finding salvation through faith in Jesus Christ.
